CROWD LINES UP TO INSPECT 737 JET

Kelowna Airport Tested By New PWA Jet-Liner

The thrill of roaring twin jet engines, and the beautiful sight of "lift-off", were experienced by more than 1,500 people Sunday morning at the Kelowna Airport.

At about 9:10 a.m., a big Pacific Western Airlines Boeing 737 jet-liner from Vancouver, put down on the runway during a series of familiarization circuits of Kelowna and Penticton airports.

RCMP crowd estimates ranged between 1,500 and 2,000. The test flight was in preparation for the new PWA jet service between Vancouver, Kelowna, Penticton and Calgary, which begins April 27.

On the 117-passenger twin-jet aircraft Sunday were only six people, the flight crew, a department of transport official and PWA and Boeing officials.

TAKEOVER APRIL 27
Representing PWA was advertising and public relations manager, Glen Garvin, who said the company was "looking forward to providing the Valley with first class jet and the jet-prop Convair service." PWA will take over the east-west flights from Canadian Pacific Air when daylight saving time comes into effect April 27.

The new 737 service will cut the present Kelowna-Vancouver flying time in half as a result of the aircraft's 580 mph cruising speed. As a supplement, the airline will use Convair 440 jet-prop aircraft on the run.

Operating a north-south feeder service with PWA connections will be B.C. Air Lines' 18-passenger, 300 mph jet-prop aircraft.

The 737's flight crew Sunday was headed by Capt. Kees Fransbergen, director of flight operations, with Capt. R. B. Mackie, chief pilot for northern operations, and PWA pilot Capt. G. W. Parker.

Department of transport official, Darrel Smith, of Vancouver, said his duty on the flight was to see that all the aircraft's performance fell within the civil aviation criteria for class one airline operations — the highest safety standards laid down. "We studied the approach patterns under maximum gross weight simulation of 90,000 pounds for a 90-degree day, on one and two engines, and the plane performed very well," he said. "We simulated the worst possible conditions and I was very impressed with its operation."

But the DoT official said at least two more obstruction beacons were needed in the north approach area, one on a hill just north and west of the end of the runway, and the other closer to Winfield.

Also reported happy with the flight was F. J. Maier, operations engineer for the Boeing company, who calculated the simulation tests on board the 737 Sunday.

Interviewed later, Capt. Fransbergen said the run to and from Vancouver, "won't be a smooth one at all, but there will be nothing unsafe about it."

"It will be rough in the summer, with lots of air-bubbling over the mountains. But it has nothing to do with the aircraft," he said.

"It's a highly manoeuvrable airplane," stated Capt. "Robbie" Mackie. "Today we were just looking the airport over and generally looking over the obstructions — testing the way the aircraft's going to fit."

Flight operations director Fransbergen said 24 pilots, or four crews, will be flying the three $5,500,000 737s expected to be placed on the run eventually.

After the last test circuit, and before the noon take-off for Penticton, the crowds which had been viewing the flights from inside and around the new terminal building were given a "guided tour" of the aircraft by the PWA advertising and public relations manager, Glen Garvin.

Levesque Remains Critical

MONTREAL (CP) — A Montreal Heart Institute spokesman said today the condition of Gerold Levesque, 58, only survivor of nine patients who have had heart transplant operations at the institute, remains critical.

The spokesman said Mr. Levesque remains unconscious and partially paralysed. Mr. Levesque, from Grande Anse, N.B., suffered a cerebral thrombosis Saturday and the left side of his body was paralysed.

Mr. Levesque received his replacement heart Nov. 29. Of 14 heart transplants to date in Canada, three still are recovering well.

They are: John Parkinson, 58, who received a heart at Montreal's Royal Victoria Hospital; Pietro Ongaro, 42, operated on Oct. 19 in Toronto; and Charles Johnston, 54, who received a heart Nov. 17 in Toronto.

Damaged Ship Heads For Port

NEW YORK (AP) — The British cargo vessel Montcalm, a hole smashed in her side just above the waterline by a truck which broke loose in the hold during stormy North Atlantic weather, proceeded today under its own power toward Halifax, the coast guard reported.

The 440-foot vessel began shipping water through a 12-foot hole Sunday while rolling in 20- to 30-foot seas.

All Quiet Today On Suez Canal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After two days of heavy shelling, the Suez Canal was reported quiet again today. Egypt prepared a hero's funeral for its army chief of staff, Gen. Abdel Moneim Riad, who was killed by an Israeli shell Sunday.

"They are burying their general at noon, so we don't expect trouble today," an Israeli military source said.

United Nations observers blamed Egypt for the start of the artillery duel Saturday. They reported to UN headquarters that they observed the Egyptians firing from one to 32 minutes before the Israelis opened up along the blocked waterway.

Israeli shells hit Egypt's oil refinery at Suez for the fourth time since the 1967 war, and the Israelis said a petrochemical plant and oil storage tanks were still burning today. Egypt said three tanks were set afire.

Israel said one of its Piper Cubs was shot down, three Israelis including the pilot were killed and 14 were wounded.

Egypt claimed at least 100 Israelis were killed or wounded, three planes shot down and 31 tanks destroyed.

Egypt said three of its men were killed and 13 wounded and it lost a MiG jet. Israel said the MiG pilot was captured. Egypt also claimed its forces brought down an Israeli Mystere jet but Israel denied this.

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram said Riad had flown by helicopter to Ismailia Sunday and was observing the artillery duel with a group of officers when the shell landed close to him. Others in the group were only slightly injured, but the 50-year-old general died shortly after he was taken to hospital.

Riad was Egypt's second-ranking soldier after the defence minister, Gen. Mohammed Fawzi. President Nasser posthumously awarded him Egypt's highest military decoration, the Star of Honor.

Apollo May Have To Shift Splashdown To Calmer Seas

HOUSTON (AP) — With stormy weather buffeting their planned Atlantic landing area, the Apollo 9 astronauts received word today that they might have to shift their splashdown to calmer seas.

James A. McDivitt, David R. Scott and Russell L. Schweickart then turned space-age weather experts to report on conditions in the scheduled landing zone and over a wide area of the United States.

McDivitt, the Apollo 9 commander, asked about the forecast for Thursday's planned landing southwest of Bermuda. Stuart Roosa, the capsule communicator in Mission Control here, reported a storm front moving through the area and "they're calling for fairly heavy winds, around 30 knots or so and waves around six to eight feet."

"But we'll make sure the weather is good though," Roosa assured Apollo 9. "I don't think we'll plunk you down in the middle of a front there."

The astronauts can change their landing area by firing their retro rockets earlier or later than planned.

McDivitt reported Apollo 9 had spotted the storm. "It looks pretty rough and windy," he said. "You can see the whitecaps from up where we are."

He then reported the weather cloudy over southern Texas, clear over Florida and stormy farther north along the east coast of the U.S.

The weather watch helped break the monotony of Apollo 9's seventh day in space — in which the astronauts drifted to conserve fuel.

It's Mission Control. Our space ship has been recalled by the manufacturers!

Eight-Day Ordeal Ends For Miner

LARK, Utah (AP) — William (Buck) Jones relaxed in a hospital bed today, freed from the tiny cell of rock that held him captive deep in a Utah mountain for eight days.

Jones, 61, a father of 11, was brought to safety Sunday night by rescuers who had tunneled through 25 feet of rock to his capsule.

After an emotional reunion with his family at the lead and silver mine entrance, Jones was taken by ambulance 20 miles to a Salt Lake City hospital for examination and rest.

EUROPE'S FREE MARKETS

Gold Price Continues To Rise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Western Europe's central bankers decided Sunday the French franc's troubles did not constitute an emergency requiring international action but the price of gold continued to rise today on Europe's free markets.

Bullion was selling at $43.75 U.S. an ounce in London, 25 cents over Friday's price. Dealers said the demand was normal and the turnover small, indicating the upward movement was caused by the absence of sellers at the lower levels.

On London's foreign exchange market the pound opened a little better — at $2.3908 — compared to Friday's $2.3895. But the franc, which pulled sterling down last week, was still shaky. In Zurich, the price of gold jumped from $43.40-$43.60 to $43.75-$44, hitting a record high for the second time in four days.

A bullion dealer said there was "demand from almost everywhere," but a banker said the buying "did not appear to be really hectic."

The Paris free gold market hit another record — the fifth in the last week — at an equivalent of $48.41 an ounce. This was an increase of 10 cents over the Friday close. Volume was moderate and few holders of gold were willing to sell.

The West German domestic price of gold was fixed in Frankfurt at a record $42.14, up

Proceedings Are Completed In Less Than 3½ Hours

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray pleaded guilty today to murdering Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and was sentenced to 99 years in the Tennessee State Penitentiary.

"You have pleaded guilty to first-degree murder and it is the judgment of the court that you be confined for 99 years in the state penitentiary," Criminal Court Judge Preston Battle said.

The entire proceeding, from original guilty plea to setting of the sentence by the jury, last less than 3½ hours.

A minute before the judge passed sentence, Ray sat quietly as the judge asked the jurors whether they still agreed to a state-defence arrangement that Ray plead guilty and accept the sentence.

All 12 raised their right hands in assent.

The judge then thanked the jurors and all others who had helped in the case. He repeated defence and prosecution contentions that there was no evidence of a conspiracy in the slaying of King, Negro civil rights leader.

Should any such evidence arise, the judge made it clear, the state will prosecute.

Ray said he did not agree with the theory that there was no conspiracy to assassinate King. He did not elaborate. He said, however, "I agree with the stipulation" to plead guilty.

"I've never had hopes of anything except . . . to save this man's life," said Ray's lawyer, Percy Foreman of Houston, Tex. "It took me months to prove to myself . . . that it was not a conspiracy."

Five witnesses then testified to the actual fact of King's slaying, at the Lorraine Motel here April 4, 1968. This is necessary under Tennessee law in a case where the death penalty could be involved.

Then, the jury must retire to

JAMES EARL RAY . . . speedy trial

go through the formality of setting the 99-year sentence.

The jury was chosen from a venue picked two weeks ago, but the jurors themselves had no idea, a court spokesman said, that they would be assigned to the Ray case until court began this morning.

HAS NO APPEAL

Criminal Court Judge Preston Battle asked Ray whether he understood that his guilty plea meant he waived all rights to appeal. He also was asked whether the decision to plead guilty was his own and of his own free will.

"I agree with the stipulation," Ray said, and then told the judge he wanted to add something.

Asked what it was, Ray said he wanted to go on record as saying he did not agree with "the theory" that there was no conspiracy.

Two Avenues Being Explored To Settle Postal Walkouts

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is not prepared to continue operating in "what amounts to a blackmail situation" regarding wildcat postal walkouts, a postal spokesman said today.

He made the comment as hundreds of postal workers continued a series of wildcat strikes against the post office in protest over work procedures connected with the new five-day delivery system.

The government was continuing to explore two avenues to settle the walkout issue, the spokesman said. These included setting up an arbitrator to settle specific grievances and taking legal action against unions and workers involved in the walkouts.

Postmaster-General Eric Kierans was expected to make a comment to the Commons on the situation after the House meets at 2 p.m. EST.

The wildcat walkouts, involving mainly letter carriers, started in nine cities last Friday.

Roger Decarie, president of the Letter Carriers Union of Canada, had ordered the workers to stay on the job. They ignored the call Friday and pickets were out again today in a number of southern Ontario cities and in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Winnipeg and Saskatoon.

Mr. Decarie issued another back-to-work call Sunday and a series of meetings was held here between union representatives and post office department officials about the complaints by the workers.

The spokesman said the workers involved have a contract with the government. The government was "not prepared to operate in what amounts to a blackmail situation."

"A contract has been broken."

Young Voters Main Factor Wickson Tells Tory Meeting

OTTAWA (CP) — Unless the Progressive Conservative party shows concern for the party's poor electoral showings in French Canada, the urban areas and among young voters, it can never form a government, the Conservative national director says.

In his report to the party's annual general meeting opening here today, Malcolm Wickson says this is particularly important now that it is possible in Canada for a minority party to become the government in a short space of time if it is properly prepared and makes the right appeal to voters.

An opposition party no longer is "doomed to a waiting period of at least one election before becoming a strong challenger for government," Mr. Wickson says.

More and more Canadian voters can be classed as non-aligned, rather than straight supporters of a particular party. This "switching element" can go either way on a particular issue, creating a greater chance for rapid major electoral change.

Youth is a main factor here, he says, because many young people are not permanently wedded to a single party. There are "instant politics" in the modern era, he adds. Issues arise quickly, are criticized quickly and people make up their minds quickly, because they are barraged with facts and interpretation from a wide spectrum of media agents.

Indian Found Dead Today Beside Shannon Lake Road

An Indian man, believed to be Daniel Alexander, was found dead early today beside the Shannon Lake Road, between Kelowna and Westbank.

Police investigation which took up most of the morning, indicated the man, about 32, had left a car on the road some time during the night, crawled on his hands and knees about 10 feet off the road, drank from a large bottle of wine and a bottle of gin and died.

The body was discovered at 8:30 a.m. by two department of highways workers on their way to pick up gravel, about two miles along the road from Highway 97.

The RCMP's identification section was examining the two empty bottles at noon, and coroner D. M. White was trying to reach Noll Derksen, chief of the Westbank Indian band, for final identification of the body.

Coroner White, who could not examine the body until it thawed, said an inquiry will be conducted into the death this week.

He said it is not clear why the man got out of the car, but he was found leaning against a tree stump, and apparently died after falling asleep.

Heart Switch Fails For Six-Year-Old

CINCINNATI (AP) — Six-year-old Christine Cohn died early today in Children's Hospital, ending the girl's struggle to survive heart transplant surgery.

Hospital administrator Robert Southwick said that doctors at first thought the girl's body had rejected the heart she received Feb. 8, but this later appeared to be an uncertainty.

New Success In Treatment Of Parkinson's Disease

Several Philadelphia hospitals report dramatic results in the treatment of Parkinson's disease with an experimental drug. The hospitals report that the drug L-dopa produces virtually complete recovery in about 25 per cent of their Parkinson patients and improvement in most others suffering the debilitating disorder of the nervous system which causes trembling of the hands. Since L-dopa must be administered indefinitely, however, it is not claimed as a cure.

At Episcopal Hospital, Dr. Jack Greenberg said 10 of 35 patients lost nearly all signs of the disease after they were given the drug over a six-month period, and marked improvement in another 10. The University of Pennsylvania Hospital, which began L-dopa trials last summer, reported that about 25 per cent of 70 to 80 patients given the drug lost nearly all signs of the disease, and about half the remaining patients showed noted improvement.

Senior Citizens Meet Again

RUTLAND — Due to the bad winter weather, the Rutland Senior Citizens group missed its regular monthly meetings for January and February, but got away to a good start with their March meeting Tuesday.

Meeting at the Centennial Hall, the proceedings began as usual with the singing of O Canada, led by John Wilson, the blind violinist. There were 14 of the regular members there to answer the roll, and also eight newcomers present. Following the routine business of minutes, financial report and correspondence, the selection of a delegate to attend the regional council meeting to be held in Princeton on March 28 was made. The local president George Cook was appointed. In addition there were nine members who indicated that they would be attending the council. In addition to the delegate they are Mrs. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Quigley, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Bach, Mr. and Mrs. H. Fruson and Mrs. L. A. Jacob, the secretary.

The happy birthday song was sung in honor of Mr. Wilson, whose birthday occurred during the month of January, when no meeting was held. The serving of refreshments followed, after which most of the members played bridge or tried their hands at Chinese checkers.

The next meeting will be held in the same place, and at the same hour, and the group would be happy to welcome new members.

Indian Leaders Demand Probe

SECHLT, B.C. (CP)—Leaders of five provincial and national Indian organizations Saturday demanded a federal-provincial investigation into alleged RCMP brutality against Indians in British Columbia.

The request came mid-way through a provincial government investigation of alleged police brutality on the Sechelt reserve 30 miles north of Vancouver.

The Indian leaders decided to seek a broader inquiry after hearing reports of similar situations at Prince George, Prince Rupert, Williams Lake and Smithers.

Their resolution was wired to Justice Minister John Turner and Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien in Ottawa.

House Defended At Gun Point Now Torn Down

VICTORIA (CP)—The house a Victoria family defended at gun point last month was torn down Saturday by a city works department crew.

The ramshackle two-storey home was flattened in 20 minutes by a bulldozer after two years of smouldering controversy between owner William Coburn and City Hall.

The lengthy battle started in March, 1967, when the city informed Mr. Coburn it wanted his property for a low rental housing project and appraised the house at $12,500. Mr. Coburn said he wanted $17,500. On Feb. 1 the city claimed its expropriation bylaw gave it ownership of the house and a works crew tried to evict the Coburn family.

The attempt failed when the evicting officials were met by two persons armed with rifles. The officials retreated and the city reopened negotiations with Mr. Coburn.

Highway warning signs such as this one, located at the top of Powers' Creek hill, one-half mile south of Westbank, might save your life or prevent serious injury or vehicle damage. The posters have been erected in several places along a 20-mile stretch at dangerous deer runs between Westbank and Sumnerland. Motorists are urged to take heed, particularly at night, the most serious time for increasing deer-car accidents. —(Courier Photo)

Hotel-Motel Idea Reactions Mixed

Plans to form a motel-hotel association in Kelowna have drawn mixed reactions from tourist accommodation operators.

Still in the first tentative stages, the association was mentioned by Ernie Cowan, manager of the Capri Motor Hotel, to a Kelowna Chamber of Commerce meeting last week.

Today he said two owners are talking about it and sounding out local reaction. "But these things take a long time to happen," Mr. Cowan added.

An enthusiastic reaction came from Geoff Tozer, manager of the Inn Tower, who said he has been calling tourist operators for their opinions.

"Everyone thinks it's a very good idea," he said, and estimated at least 75 per cent, and probably 90 per cent, of the Central Okanagan motel-hotel operators would join.

The association would be based on a all-hang-together-or-hang-separately concept, providing a unified voice for the operators with city council, chambers of commerce and government bodies.

Mr. Cowan feels there are other services the operators could provide for each other, such as cutting down "skip-outs"—people who leave without paying their bill.

There may be an association within a month, or at least by summer, Mr. Tozer predicted today.

In a survey today, many hotel-motel operators said they would join such an organization, but most wanted to know more about it before they could make up their minds.

"I can't really see the need for it," said Mrs. Inga Jenner, manager of the Caravel Motor Inn. Controlling thefts or skip-outs would be a doubtful service to her, she said; her hotel has only about one incident per year.

Mrs. Jenner belongs to the Okanagan zone of the B.C. Hotel Association, but most operators do not, apparently. One operator said he belonged, but quit when he was "paying a high fee for nothing but a social function."

The same attitude was discovered about the proposed Kelowna association. At least two operators felt the thing would be primarily a social club.

Kelowna did have a strong motel association about three years ago, but it folded because of a high turn-over of motel owners.

Although tourist operators seemed hesitant to commit themselves to such an organization, there did seem to be a spirit of co-operation among them.

"The association is bound to happen," said Mrs. Helen Galleg, manager of the Four Seasons Motel. Similar comments were made by a number of operators.

One woman said she would join to help with skip-outs and so on, even though she has no trouble with this herself.

Another Snag At Boat Plant

The area's new pleasure craft plant, hampered by weather and missing heating plant parts, hit another snag Friday.

Scheduled to go into production today after a four day delay caused by absence of an integral part of the heating system, Canadian Fibreform Ltd., Westside Industrial Park, drew another blank when a main transformer blew Friday just when things were brightening for plant manager and secretary, D. W. Ballantyne.

Hopefully, Mr. Ballantyne said "all systems would be go" Tuesday, when the plant expects to put out four to 10 to 32 foot boats a day until April, at which time production will be increased to five. The plant employs 25 men, anxious to begin filling a backlog of 100 orders.

FINED $150
Alex Popoff, 23, of Rutland, today was fined $150 and was prohibited from operating a motor vehicle anywhere in Canada for one year, after pleading guilty in magistrate's court to a charge of impaired driving. Court was told Popoff's vehicle had been clocked by RCMP at speeds up to 85 mph along Highway 97 near Westbank Saturday and during the time his vehicle was observed swerving from lane to lane.

Large 'Pack' Of Lions 'Roaring' Into Kelowna

The Kelowna Lions Club will play host to some 450 Lions and their wives when they attend the annual spring convention in Kelowna March 15 and 16.

Members will attend the convention from as far south as the Wenatchee Valley and as far north as Prince George. The convention's agenda will include the reading of committee reports and the general welfare of the Lions clubs in the district.

March 15 a regular meeting of the Lions will be held at Capri, with a dinner and dance. Activities will commence at 6:30 p.m. and the guest speaker will be Chester Lesh of Seattle.

Mr. Lesh was elected a director of Lions International at the association's annual convention in Toronto in 1964. Mr. Lesh held the offices of club president, zone chairman, deputy district governor and district governor.

He has received a man of the year award and is a key member.

Mr. Lesh attended Whitman College in Walla Walla, Wash., the University of Washington Law School in Seattle, and is now a practicing attorney. He is a member of the Sigma Chi Fraternity, Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity, the Washington State Bar Association and the World Peace Through Law Committee.

The Lions will have a breakfast at Capri from 7 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. and at 9 a.m. they will have a business session at the Community Theatre.

Luncheon will follow at Capri and the guest speaker will be Rev. Francis Goddard, principal of Immaculate High School. As yet, the subject of his talk is not known.

SEEN and HEARD

Kelowna Brier attendance record has stood up well to its first test. The attendance last week at Oshawa was 26,521, only 708 more than the 25,813 who watched the Canadian Curling Championship here last year. Skeptics last year said Kelowna (the smallest city ever to stage the Brier) was too small, but Oshawa, with a larger arena and a much larger drawing area, attracted only 708 more people for the 11 draws. In the last 23 Briers Kelowna ranks 11th on the attendance chart.

Kelowna friends of Bill Sands will be glad to hear he has been discharged from hospital in Victoria after suffering his third heart attack. A former city resident, Mr. Sands has been deputy B.C. labor minister since 1952.

Spring hasn't officially "sprung," but the warmer season did make a strong effort toward springing Sunday. The official start comes one week from Thursday, but already flowers are beginning to poke through bare spots, Sunday driver traffic is becoming heavier and Central Okanagan residents are moving outdoors with less reluctance.

Beverley Tanaka, grade 12 student, Dr. Knox Secondary School, came first in the high school division out of eight entries from all across Canada in the Miss Honey Queen contest judged Friday in Ottawa. An Edmonton girl won first all-round and the grand champion title. Beverley was accompanied by her home economics teacher, Naomi Katal.

Everywhere the snow is slowly disappearing... except behind the arena, where periodic ice-shaving dumpings are creating new mounds of the white stuff. An arena official said today the rink ice would be available at least until the end of the month.

Boaters contemplating an early launch on the "briny" will be sad to hear that lake ice is still a foot thick in places. Some four dozen boats are caught in winter's frozen fist awaiting sunny Okanagan freedom at the Kelowna Yacht Club basin.

Missed by our usually keen eye... a "modern antique" sign on Ellis Street. Sounds like a misnomer.

Many Kelowna and district residents find their basements are undergoing the annual "flood." One resident was spotted Sunday afternoon carrying a child's pail and his intentions were quite obvious.

For every fatal accident you read about in the newspaper there are dozens that "almost" happen. At least three motorists could have died today on the Okanagan Lake bridge, result of one driver's foolishness. Heavy traffic in both directions on the bridge was suddenly interrupted by a speeding car, which panned two vehicles, almost forcing them into the concrete bridge wall. An instant before colliding with an on-coming car, the vehicle crumpled its way back into the line of traffic. The incident—as well as the car's licence number—has been reported to RCMP.

Sunny weather if forecast for Kelowna Tuesday. Clear tonight and Tuesday and winds should be light. The low tonight and high for Tuesday for Kelowna are forecast for 20 and 42. The high and low recorded in Kelowna Saturday were 42 and 18, compared with 52 and 27 on the same date one year ago. The high and low recorded in Kelowna Sunday were 39 and 15, compared with 51 and 26 on the same date one year ago.

Arts Council Meets Today

The Kelowna and District Arts Council will hold its annual general meeting today at 8 p.m. in the board room of the Okanagan Regional Library.

Just A Little Upsetting For Anglican Churchgoers

Magistrate D. M. White woke up Sunday morning to see a cement truck parked in front of his Okanagan Mission home.

He removed the keys from the vehicle but couldn't get his car out to go to church. After attempting to move the big truck out of his driveway he called RCMP—the police finally had to call a driver to move the truck. The magistrate said the action was a "prank".

The "phantom truck" also struck at St. Michael's Hall on Sutherland Avenue, parking a large bulldozer directly in front of the Anglican Church door and apparently doing some damage to a pillar.

The motive for the two acts is not clear.

Egon Kulak, manager of Hill-top Sand and Gravel, said today the vehicles were stolen about 5 a.m. Sunday from the company's yard on Barnaby Road in Okanagan Mission.

Although the cement truck was stolen fairly close to its destination—magistrate White's driveway—the bulldozer had to be driven more than five miles to the unlikely parking place at the church. Police are still investigating.

Heavy Damage, One Injury Occurs In Weekend Mishaps

A total of $3,800 vehicle damage, and undetermined injuries to one passenger, resulted from four weekend accidents, RCMP reported today.

Mrs. Bertram Johnston, of 446 Bernard Ave., suffered undetermined injuries when a vehicle operated by her husband was in collision with a car driven by James Benjamin Fee, 59, of Vernon, at 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

The accident, which resulted in total damages of $800, occurred at the intersection of Leon Avenue and Water Street.

Saturday at 8 p.m., at Glenmore Road and Mountain Avenue, an automobile operated by Denis Tirk, 19, of Rutland, sustained $1,000 damage when it left the roadway, RCMP reported.

A total of $1,400 damage to two vehicles resulted at 9:15 p.m. Saturday in an accident along Highway 97 north.

Operators of cars involved were Gary Michael Rieger, 22, Rutland and Judith Armenteau, 18, of 1777 Water St. At 1:15 a.m. Saturday, along Rutland Road, $600 damage was sustained in an accident involving Alfred Jones, 43, of Hardie Road, Rutland, and Ronald Earle Smith, 17, of Vernon Road, Kelowna.

Police are also investigating a one-vehicle accident along Highway 97 south, near the city look-out area above the tourist bureau, reported to have occurred Sunday when a vehicle left the highway and crashed into an embankment.

Museum's First Full Year Indicates Successful Future

The first full year of operation for the Kelowna Centennial Museum came to an end last week, with attendance records and displays in excellent shape.

Reports of "great strides" made in the past year were given to the annual general meeting of the Okanagan Museum and Archives Association by the outgoing executive.

One of the most popular activities during the year was the full schedule of museum tours to area schools. Speaking for elementary schools in school district 23 (Kelowna) J. D. Wilson said all principals were most enthusiastic about the tours.

Several new shows are planned for the museum, a fur bearing animal pelts of B.C. display from the fish and game department, an exhibition by the Kelowna Rock Club during May, and a visit of the Rothman collection in August, work by well-known Canadian artists and craftsmen.

Tudhope McIntyre car were listed as the most valuable donations to the museum during the year. The car was given by the Lloyd-Jones family.

The museum has recently had a burglar alarm system installed and acquired a fire-proof filing cabinet.

Thanks were given by Mrs. Nigel Pooley for use of museum space used during the year by the Palette Club, which held painting sessions one night each week. Kelowna Musical Productions has consulted regularly with museum staff to authenticate costumes and sets for Showboat, the KMP's upcoming production.

The new executive elected at the meeting was: president, C. W. Knowles; vice-president, M. P. DeMara; treasurer, K. S. N. Shepherd; executive, J. W. Lang, G. D. Cameron, H. L. Mann, H. S. Robinson; directors, A. W. Gray, Mrs. John Lamont, Mrs. Nigel Pooley, S. H. W. Stockley.

Ald. R. J. Wilkinson was named city representative on the board.

An acquaintanceship meeting between school district 23 (Kelowna) representatives and the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce was held Friday to discuss post-secondary education financing.

Chamber official, Dave Bremner, said the chamber constitution has always placed education high on the list, and his meeting with school board officials Fred Macklin and F. J. Orme, was an exploratory move toward possible chamber finance and for post-secondary education. Mr. Macklin lauded chamber work generally, and said the organization "has always been interested in education."

Earlier in the week, Mr. Bremner, along with Ron Alexander, chairman of the chamber's education committee and Gordon Hirtle, chamber president, met with Okanagan College principal, Dr. Roland Grant, and Richard Ketchum, executive assistant to the college, to discuss chamber assistance along the same lines. The talks, said Mr. Grant, were part of many to be held during the year.

Three Months For Obstructing

Robert Jamrichko, of Kelowna, was today sentenced to three months jail and fined $100, after pleading guilty to Feb. 11 charges of obstructing a police officer and of causing a disturbance.

Both charges arose out of an incident in front of a local restaurant Feb. 11.

The obstruction count, for which Jamrichko received the three months jail sentence, was laid following a fight, while police were investigating a disturbance complaint.

Councils Told Tonight Of Need To Act Quickly

"Operation Okanagan Winter Games" continues in the three Valley cities tonight and in Kelowna Tuesday afternoon.

A committee which could have a life-span of less than one month will learn Tuesday afternoon if it should proceed with a bid which might bring the 1971 Canadian Winter Games to the Okanagan.

The nine-man committee was formed in Kelowna Saturday, but its future depends on decisions made tonight by city councils in Vernon, Kelowna and Penticton. The councils will be asked to approve a three-way split of all capital and promotion costs required to have the games staged in the Valley. Costs are split three ways for required facilities, with Ottawa paying one third, Victoria one third and the three Valley cities splitting the remaining one third evenly.

The committee consists of the three mayors, an alderman from each city and one recreation commission official from each community. Penticton Mayor Doug Stuart is chairman, with Vernon Mayor William Halina the vice-chairman.

GO-AHEAD
If the enthusiasm displayed during Saturday's three-hour meeting here is any indication, the councils should give the go-ahead tonight. This would bring committee members back to Kelowna at 2 p.m. Tuesday to start preparation of a detailed bid, which must be in Victoria a week to eight days before the end of this month.

The deadline for bids is April 1, with the games' site due to be announced from Ottawa by April 15. About 10 bids are expected to be made for the games, from the three western provinces and Ontario. The B.C. provincial government is solidly behind the Okanagan effort and there are indications this area is favored by members of the sponsoring Canadian Amateur Sports Federation.

The games, which last about a week, involve 13 compulsory events and would attract 3,000 competitors and 1,000 newsmen and officials to the Okanagan. Held every four years, the first games in Quebec City in 1967 featured sports such as hockey, Nordic and alpine skiing, figure and speed skating, basketball, volleyball, gymnastics, table tennis, wrestling, weight-lifting, synchronized swimming, fencing, badminton, curling and target shooting.

Gordon Smith, superintendent of the Kelowna parks and recreation commission, and a member of the nine-man games committee, has been told facilities in the three Okanagan cities in many cases are better than those used in Quebec City. Besides what the Valley already has, there will be a need for a ski jump and a speed skating track and possibly an Olympic-sized swimming pool.

Committee members agreed Saturday that if council agreement is given it must be on the basis of the three cities sharing equally, no matter in which community a new facility is located.

Chairman Stuart said as well as capital costs, the three cities must be willing to share in promotion expenses, "possibly $2,000 or $3,000."

TIME SHORT
He said time was important because of the April 1 deadline and the councils will be told tonight of the need for quick action.

Assuming approval is given, at the Tuesday meeting the committee will begin preparing a brief listing all available Okanagan facilities for accommodation and competition, plus what will be required. There has already been talk of building the required ski jump at one of the four Valley ski areas, rather than using an existing jump at Revelstoke, as has been suggested. Mayor Stuart said the distance to Revelstoke, for one of 13 events, might jeopardize the Okanagan bid.

If the Okanagan bid is accepted, the original committee would be expanded to more than 400 volunteer workers. The three cities would sponsor the games, but a separate committee would look after organization and running.

Vernon Mayor Halina urged that the Winter Games date not conflict with the Vernon Winter Carnival, held annually early in February.

Mr. Smith said the Quebec City games were held Feb. 11 to 19 and he said holding the games in March (as was discussed briefly) would result in serious weather problems.

During a working luncheon Mayor Stuart proposed a toast "to the 1971 Okanagan Winter Games... if they are held here they'll be successful."

Applications For Bail Refused For Pair Charged With Theft

Applications for bail were refused two Kelowna youths by Magistrate D. M. White, when the pair pleaded guilty in court today to charges of theft under $50 (shoplifting).

Wayne Towle and John Volpatti were remanded in custody for one week, pending preparation of pre-sentence reports by local probation officer Doug Hunter.

The two were arrested Sunday by RCMP officers following a complaint by the operator of Fels's Gulf service station. Court was told by police prosecutor Const. Jack Broomfield.

The charges involved the theft of tape cartridges and spark plugs from the service station. "Both accused had been drinking at the time and were not co-operative with the investigating officers," Const. Broomfield told the court.

The accused Towle asked of Magistrate White, "Your honor, I have a family and a job; do you think I could arrange for bail or something so I won't lose my job?"

"Bail is out of the question at the moment," the magistrate replied.

Ogopogo DeMolay Chapter Gets New Officers March 29

The Ogopogo Chapter of the Order of DeMolay elected a new slate of officers Thursday to serve for six months.

The new executive, plus 18 appointed officers will be installed at a public meeting March 29 at 8 p.m. at St. George's Masonic Hall.

New officers are: master, Stephen Markle, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Markle; senior counselor, Ross Gordon; counselor, John L. Gordon; junior counselor, Ronald Toole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Toole; and treasurer, Dal Little, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Little.

The local branch of the DeMolay will join more than 2,500 other DeMolay chapters this year in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the world-wide youth movement.

The anniversary is designed to acquaint the public throughout the free world with the purposes and activities of the character building organization of young men 14-21 years old.

The theme selected for the observance is 50 years of young men on the go. The DeMolays are planning events from social activities to civic service projects to emphasize the commemoration.

Fine, Suspended Sentence For Convicted Area Youth

A $300 fine on one charge and a two-year suspended sentence on another was handed down today to Rutland youth Barry Cundy by magistrate, D. M. White.

Cundy had previously pleaded guilty to charges of breaking, entering and theft of Les IGA, Winfield, Feb. 24, and the Seventh-day Adventist Church, Rutland, Feb. 25. He had been remanded to today for sentencing, pending a pre-sentence report by local probation officer Doug Hunter.

In sentencing Cundy, Magistrate White said, "The whole atmosphere of this charge is one of abuse—in both instances, it was not because of want."

"I don't think young people today appreciate the liberty they have in this country—one of the freest countries in the world."

The magistrate then asked RCMP prosecutor Const. Jack Broomfield if he had anything more to present the court in connection with the case, and he replied, "There have been a number of break-ins in the area recently, but most of them have been rather juvenile attempts."

"But in this case it appeared they knew what they were looking for—it involved a large amount of money and a safe attack."

Unlikely Border Clash Will Cause Explosion

The Russian-Chinese row after the border clash for which each side has blamed the other is provoking a great deal of speculation throughout the world. The facts of the case are in dispute and the possible motives of both sides appear devious. The important point, however, is that two major powers confront each other on a common frontier and each is deeply distrustful of the other. The Russians have now outdistanced the Americans as China's chief enemy. Given the suspicions of both sides, the frontier incidents could accelerate to the point of serious explosion.

There are at least two good reasons on the Chinese side to modify fears of a major explosion. The Russians are still not enemies of the new China in the same sense that the Americans are. They do not occupy Chinese territory on which a rival government is sustained. They do not keep China out of the United Nations. Thus the Russians are political enemies, advocates of a false faith, to be exposed for their backsliding or their evil influence.

Most signs point to Chinese responsibility for the incident which came at the crucial moment when Russia was deciding whether to have a major crisis over Berlin and thus forfeit hopes of negotiations with President Nixon. The very site of the incident suggests that China picked the time and place. That she would provoke such an incident suggests that China's international impotence resulting from her internal turmoil, may be ending.

There is a strong inference that whoever may be afraid of Russia, China is not—either on the frontier or in her attitude to the Russian embassy or Russia's leaders. However, the west is far too prone to rely on Chinese-Russian rivalry instead of achieving adequate defences against both. A Sino-Soviet reconciliation is still far more probable than a dependably friendly relationship between the West and either of them. Yet obviously the greater friction between the two, the wider do the options become for a skilful and realistic Western diplomacy.

It may be that the Chinese leaders have become increasingly alarmed about the possibility of an understanding between Moscow and Washington. These fears have been fed by Soviet and American co-operation over the test ban treaty and the non-proliferation treaty, both of which are seen to be directed against China.

The border clash between the Soviet Union and China is the awe-inspiring event which is awaited in the last quarter of this century. It may come sooner. The Chinese perpetually surprise by the speed at which they work. But the frontier incident, serious though it may be, does not now look like the start of the conflict. Whether the incident was planned or accidental, there is no sign that either side wants to start a full-scale conflict. Both of them have too many other pressing problems already.

IT HAPPENED IN CANADA

Gaunt Face Of Hunger In U.S. Emerges In Sharp Detail Now

WASHINGTON (CP) — The gaunt face of hunger in the United States, long hidden behind a glittering veil of affluence, has emerged in unusual and sharp detail in recent weeks. For many Americans, it is a painful experience.

The facts, as the Washington Post puts it, "add up to an indictment of complacency and callousness" against the world's wealthiest country. Ironically, it was a sort of turncoat southern senator who more than any other individual helped throw the spotlight on a situation that is belatedly being recognized as a national scandal.

Still, many of the vital statistics on hunger in the U.S. are missing. For instance, no one seems to know how many of the country's 200,000,000 population actually are without enough to eat.

But, as The New York Times points out, the statistics seemed "as superfluous as they were unobtainable" since "100 children with brain-cell damage from inadequate diet were as affecting as 1,000 or 10,000."

WHITE GO HUNGRY TOO
One thing certain, the public idea that the black city ghetto is the almost exclusive haunt of hunger is a fallacy. The majority of the hungry in this country are white and rural or small-town residents.

In Senate hearings, government action and through the sudden probing attention of the news media, these elements of the situation have emerged in recent weeks:

—Wilbur J. Cohen, secretary of health, education and welfare in the Johnson administration, charged that food stamp and other government food-assistance programs do not even reach 14,000,000 of the 22,000,000 "officially" classified as poor on the basis of income.

—The efforts of the conservative Senate rules committee to trim $100,000 from the $250,000 budget of the Senate's investigative committee on nutrition and human needs were stopped cold in a tradition-shattering Senate vote.

—One witness at a three-day committee hearing said there is evidence that as many as 1,000,000 persons in the southeastern U.S. are affected with parasites, including intestinal worms up to a foot long. A pediatrician said that the 800 calories a day many children surveyed in Beaufort County, S.C., get were "certainly not enough to support the child—and rarely enough to support the worms."

DISEASES FLOURISHING

—Diseases that Americans have long associated with poverty in the most underdeveloped countries—Asia and Central America—are flourishing within the U.S. itself.

—Poverty and ignorance have so cut off great pockets of citizens from the mainstream of American life that they either don't know about available assistance or don't know how to go about registering for it.

—In many areas, local officials refuse to co-operate with federal programs because to do so would "require the admission that they have poverty."

—In yet other districts, influential employers see poverty as the best assurance of a ready supply of low-wage labor.

When the federal government recently withheld funds from schools in several southern states for non-compliance with school desegregation laws, the result was cancellation in some districts of the free lunch program—the only real meal many children get. One source reported Negro children who had attended integrated schools were told to go back to black schools if they wanted free lunches.

One of the statements that Schaefer, director of a survey sparked the most public response was that of Dr. Arnold ordered by Congress in 1967 to determine if hunger in the U.S. really exists.

He told the Senate committee that one of the terrible consequences of the widespread malnutrition his committee found was not only mental retardation but also mental retardation. The child with anemia caused by malnutrition simply isn't a good candidate for education.

Since 95 per cent of brain-cell growth occurs before the fourth year and a deprived child never recovers the lost ground no matter how well fed in later years.

In response, President Nixon announced plans to reorganize welfare services to give greater emphasis to the nutritional needs of children in the first five years of life.

Another reaction to the public outcry was a decision by new Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin to overrule his predecessor by issuing free food stamps to the neediest families in two South Carolina counties.

Orville Freeman, secretary under President Johnson, had pleaded lack of authority to give away the stamps which may be used in stores in place of money for food.

The price is set according to ability to pay and ranges as low as $3 for stamps worth $18. But even then social workers report many persons simply can't put together that much cash at any given time.

WON'T CO-OPERATE

Additionally, there are give-away programs of surplus foods but again these require the co-operation of local or state authorities in organizing distribution and many areas refuse to participate. In some recent cases, the federal government has gone over the heads of local authorities and set up its own distribution centres.

The irony of the situation is that while the country pays about $584,000,000 for various food programs for the poor, and still fails to reach the majority of them—it also is paying about $4,500,000,000 in farm income stabilization programs. Some large farm operators receive subsidies of several million dollars in compensation for not growing crops.

In comparison with these sums the $100,000 the rules committee sought to trim from the investigative committee headed by liberal Senator George McGovern of South Dakota is trifling.

The hero of McGovern's unprecedented challenge to the rules committee was Republican Senator Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina who testified that as governor of the state he had supported the public policy of "covering up" the problem of hunger there on the grounds it was bad for business.

TOUR CONVERTED HIM
But a recent 10-day tour in which he found scurvy, rickets, pellagra and near starvation converted him and his change of heart so aroused public opinion that the full Senate reinstated the budget without question.

In testifying, he crossed swords with Republican state colleague Senator Strom Thurmond, an arch-conservative who theorized that there were poor in the time of Jesus Christ and "you'll always have some people who are not willing to work."

But, as the campaign grew, and newspapers, magazines and television kept the face of hunger on display, even Thurmond showed signs of mending his earlier opposition to the scheduled hunger investigation.

"The main concern," he said, "should be to find the most effective way to resolve these needs."

National Health Week

What is health? The definition as set forth in the Constitution of the World Health Organization is "Health is a state of complete physical, mental and social well being and not merely the absence of disease or infirmity."

Most of us take for granted our good health. We are only aware of its value when sickness or accident threatens. But health is something we must cherish always. Every individual ought to assume responsibility for maintaining his own health and that of his family at the highest level. To do so effectively one must be informed as to habits which are detrimental and those which are conducive to healthy living.

Health education must provide this information and therefore continuous and vigorous and instructive programs must be carried on for the benefit of all—in the homes, in schools, in churches, in factories, in service clubs, in men's and women's organizations and indeed in all society.

The Health League of Canada—a national voluntary health organization will celebrate its 50 years of service in health education this year.

Twenty-five years ago National Health Week was organized—a special period when emphasis is placed on the importance of health—its promotion and preservation, in co-operation with departments of health and education and with the assistance, not only of the medical, dental and nursing professions but of the voluntary health and lay organizations throughout the country. After all health is everybody's business.

The publicity media—the press, radio and television facilities—has played a great part in carrying this information to Canadians.

A great deal has been accomplished through medical research—some diseases have been eliminated altogether because of scientific knowledge—immunization to prevent communicable diseases—pasteurization of milk to prevent bone tuberculosis, typhoid fever and other milk borne diseases. Fluoridation of communal water supplies to protect against dental decay and thus reduce the dangers of infection which can cause death.

There are many problems which must still be solved. Heart disease, cancer, arthritis, mental illness, cigarette smoking and lung cancer, drug addiction and alcoholism, gerontology and preparation for old age, adequate housing, pollution and many others. The average citizen can preserve his own health and that of his family by observing the simple rules of health—a nourishing diet, sufficient exercise, rest and recreation—medical and dental check-ups—and by knowing the value of good health and how to keep it!

The Health League of Canada is promoting National Health Week—the greatest health campaign in this and any other country—for the 25th year—March 9-15, 1969 inclusive. It invites all organizations and YOU as an individual to participate in this crusade for better health, in home, in business, in school and in society.

Seven Sound Rules After Heart Attack

By DR. GEORGE THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

I am 51 and was hospitalized for 21 days with a heart attack just a year ago. Is there a book I can buy on how to care for your heart after a heart attack?

I joined the YMCA to do some jogging, swimming, and exercising. Will this hurt me in any way? I am a bus driver and was off work six months.—A.T.Z.

There are books on the subject, but some fairly simple rules usually are all you need. You can check with the local branch of the American Heart Association for literature if you need it, but I can give you seven brief rules which may well be sufficient.

1—Avoid overweight.

2—Avoid eating saturated fats. This means, chiefly, avoiding fat from meat. As a spread for butter, use any of the many that are advertised as being made with vegetable oils or polyunsaturated oils.

3—Don't smoke. If you must, a pipe is preferable to cigarettes or cigars.

4—Avoid emotional tension. Learn to relax and not fret over problems that aren't worth fretting over.

5—Get reasonable rest.

6—Get moderate exercise. But don't overdo it. I trust that your jogging, swimming, and exercising at the "Y" are done with the approval of your physician. Any exercise or exertion that causes, shortness of breath, chest discomfort, or undue fatigue is too much.

7—If your blood pressure is high, you should be under such treatment as your doctor prescribes.

Follow those seven rules and you will be doing the things you should to take care of yourself properly.

Your heart attack was a year ago. You were off work for six months, which means you have had only about six months of near usual activity. I trust that you check with your doctor periodically. He should know about your "Y" activities and evaluate the amount of any more-than-ordinary exertion you should undertake.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please help me with insomnia. I am 47 and haven't been able to sleep well for six years. The doctor gave me some sleeping pills, but I'm afraid to take them because I heard people can get hooked on them forever. I only took them when I got very tired.—M.R.P.

There is a massive difference between gobbling pills, as some people do, seeking complete forgetfulness, or taking just enough to relax you and let you sleep. Your doctor knows a lot more about proper use of such pills than the "people" who feed you scare stories.

I suggest that you use the pills. Just stay within whatever limits your doctor specified, and you won't be "hooked". Your occasional use is wise.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband went to a podiatrist to have a corn removed and was told he had bad circulation in his feet. Is this serious, and can it be corrected?—Mrs. P.J.

Faulty circulation can be serious, or it can be a nuisance, causing burning, cramping, coldness. If there is some partial blockage of circulation in a large artery, surgery is used in suitable cases.

The podiatrist was concerned because impaired circulation can retard healing. If the circulation is seriously faulty, severe trouble can come from a small injury, wound, blister, or even hot application.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If a person, aged 20, is told he is color blind, can anything be done to correct it?—T.A.

No. It is a hereditary characteristic and does not change.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Sino-Soviet Clash No Small Affair

By PHILIP DEANE
Foreign Affairs Analyst

The clash on the Russo-Chinese border may sound like a small affair but it is the sort of thing that gives the Russians nightmares because they believe in a racial Armageddon and they believe it will happen on their borders with China.

For their part, the Chinese are nakedly racist in all their propaganda both at home and abroad. Peking tells the "white man" has been and still is their mortal enemy, a beast of prey—these are among the milder epithets used by Chinese propaganda. The people of China themselves are told the same thing; they are taught to hate the white man and Russia is not excepted from the catalogue of devils.

Russia, after all, is the white power which has taken the most territory from China: the whole of Siberia, in fact, according to Chinese history books and maps. And even after the Second World War, the Russians occupying Manchuria, following the Japanese surrender, unbolted every piece of machinery and took it away, stealing from China, in fact.

Since then, Russia has not given aid to China but only loans, at high interest. Nothing has been done since the Second World War to heal the wounds. One might say they have been scratched open by the inability of the Russians (in this they differ not at all from other whites) to allow for the pathological Chinese concern with "face." Russian technicians and advisers touched the innumerable able exposed nerves of the Chinese during the years when the two nations still co-operated.

These are the more recent memories. But there are old ones which nations seem to have buried in their subconscious. The Mongols invaded Russia and held it for centuries. Much of Russian history in the Middle Ages concerns itself with emancipation from the "yellow hordes." Worse still, expressions long embedded in the Russian language reflected this ancient, almost atavistic fear of the yellows. It was the Russians (and not Napoleon as is commonly believed) who developed the theory of the "yellow peril."

Russian and other Eastern European diplomats talked with marked lack of composure about this "yellow peril" sounding weirdly like Mississippi whites decrying the growth of Negro power. With the development of hydrogen bombs and missiles by the Chinese, Russia fears she will be asked to give up territory claimed by Peking.

If Moscow refuses, and China invades, what can Russia do? Nuclear war would be unusable for fear of retaliation. Conventional warfare—despite Russia's technical superiority—holds advantages for an army like the Chinese which has endless supplies of manpower and better motivated soldiers: the affluent Russians may not be as good fighters as China's hungry peasants: affluent people seldom are. It may sound unbelievable to some that China would risk a war with Russia: the Russians do not think it unbelievable. They expect it.

CANADA'S STORY

Lajmodiere Holds Snowshoe Record

By BOB BOWMAN

Anne Marie Gaboury's story was told on Jan. 6. She was the shy girl from Trois Rivieres, Quebec, who married the great buffalo hunter Jean Baptiste Lajmodiere and added with him to Red River in 1806. She was the first white woman in the west and travelled on horseback as far west as present-day Alberta, carrying her children in special pouches. Louis Riel was her grandson.

Today is an opportunity to tell a story about her husband. He was one of those remarkable men of the age who not only knew the prairies like the back of his hand, but also made trips to Quebec and back, travelling in summer and winter.

In 1816 Jean Baptiste Lajmodiere had moved his growing family back to Red River, and began working for Lord Selkirk's new settlement.

It had been destroyed in June 1815 by members of the North West Company, but Colin Robertson, one of Selkirk's chief officers, had managed to regroup the settlers who had been driven from their homes. Robertson knew that Selkirk had arrived in Montreal from Britain and sent Lajmodiere to carry dispatches to him with all the latest news.

Lajmodiere made the 1,800 mile trip on snowshoes in bitterly cold weather (the north shore of Lake Ontario often records the lowest temperatures in Canada). He had to travel through country in which the North West Company traders were active and keep out of their way. It was a heroic feat, but Lajmodiere arrived in Montreal on March 10, 1816, and was able to give Selkirk the encouraging news.

Lajmodiere was given a few days rest and then had to begin the return journey carrying instructions from Selkirk to Robertson. He travelled light from Montreal to York where he was supposed to pick up his supplies. However, Lajmodiere began to enjoy life in York and stayed there longer than he should. He visited taverns and did a good deal of talking when his tongue was loosened by liquor.

North West Company agents sent word to their headquarters at Fort William that Lajmodiere would be travelling past there with dispatches from Selkirk. The result was that Lajmodiere was intercepted, given a painful beating by the North Westers, who took the dispatches and kept them. They were recovered by Selkirk months later when he raided the North West Company headquarters at Fort William.

Brazilian Police Getting Tough With Variety Of Minor Culprits

SAO PAULO (AP) — With almost unrestricted authority, police all over Brazil have launched a campaign against minor lawbreakers.

Since President Arthur da Costa e Silva closed Congress and assumed dictatorial powers

Dec. 13, military and political police have been rounding up petty offenders with increasing vigor. First offenders ranging from speeding motorists to suspected merchants are being sent off to prisons without being formally charged or tried.

Persons breaking new price-control laws were the main targets recently, as well as those involved in the numbers game, marijuana traffic, and contraband.

Dozens have been sent out to the Ilha Grande, Rio's version of Alcatraz, and a penal colony in the city of Belo Horizonte called Magalhães Pinto. The right of habeas corpus is suspended.

Most of the 940 prisoners in Magalhães Pinto were involved with the popular numbers game logo do bicho. Although the game has been illegal for some time, police have been cracking down only recently.

Also among the many new prisoners are merchants who raised prices on such staples as rice and meat in defiance of price controls.

Smuggling, previously accepted as part of Brazil's way of life, now is rigorously attacked by police.

Attendance Good At Open House

PEACHLAND (Special) — A very successful open house was held Thursday evening at the Peachland Elementary School. Ninety-six parents of students signed the visitors' book and visited their children's classrooms and teachers. There are six rooms and teachers this year with an enrolment of 186 pupils, quite an increase from last year with approximately 120 pupils and four teachers.

Grade 1 room was bright and cheerily decorated with murals of spring art work depicting Good Morning activities and an Our Farm display complete with booklets made in the shape of farm buildings.

Grade 2 room was bright with St. Patrick's Day cut-outs and showing samples of art work on a Johnny Apples theme, stories of the fox and the crow, as well as portraits of classmates.

Grade 3 and part of grade 4 room, one of the portable classrooms, showed the studies of this age group with displays of precious stones and minerals. Posters on health, art work depicting North American Indians and some very well done provincial crests.

The second portable classroom housing grade 4 and part of grade 5, was lively with murals of western and eastern Canada; poems titled "It's Spring" and stories by the children on a spring theme; poster, on animals and underwater animals were very effective and the children's poems on India and China showed a good knowledge of these lands.

The grade 6 and part five room in the main school featured modernistic art, as well as Indian ink etchings beautifully done. Their science program display was on conservation.

Grade 7 room featured ancient Rome with pictures and much information on this century.

Acting as hostesses for the evening were the grade 7 girls, who looked after the visitors' book and served refreshments. These were: Sherry McMillan, Judy Maxey, Iris Procter, Sherry Stuart, Marjory Gove, Nancy Zuk, Cathy Fuks, Heather Lyon and Lyn Wilson.

ANN LANDERS To Each His 'Own Thing' If Dog Can Carry Ring

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are beside ourselves. Our college-graduate daughter, who could have married any one of 10 sane, promising young men, has settled for an oddball who is causing us no end of trouble.

We wanted a beautiful church wedding, but "his" out now, Courtney has announced that his best man is going to be his dog Blaze. "Why be a hypocrite?" he said in all seriousness. "I have no friend who is as faithful and loyal as Blaze." My husband had an ulcer attack right then and there.

The best man is supposed to give the ring to the groom, to place on his bride's finger. Courtney is training Blaze to carry the ring box in his mouth and that Blaze will open his mouth and drop the box on order.

Our minister has refused to perform the ceremony, but Courtney found a justice of the peace who will marry them. Our daughter is not the least bit disturbed. She says everybody has to "do his own thing."

My husband says he will attend the ceremony but he will not pay for anything. Also, he is not going to invite his business partner or any of his business friends. Do you feel he is being fair?—R.X.

Dear R.X.: Yes I do. And if your daughter thinks otherwise, explain that her father is doing HIS own thing.

Dear Ann: Income tax time is here again. Please repeat your advice of last year. Tell your readers not to impose on the friendship of an accountant or tax consultant.

"People who wouldn't dream of asking the butcher for a free steak—or a barber for a free haircut, think nothing of asking a social acquaintance to 'help them' prepare their tax returns as a favor."

My knowledge was not obtained free. It's the only thing I have to sell for a living. Suggest that your readers look in the yellow pages under "Accountants, Certified Public"—TEXAS C.P.A.

Dear Tex: Thank you for a timely bit of advice. And to all of you out there who have the job yet to do—many happy returns.

Dear Ann Landers: After I got through laughing about the middle-aged woman who had bubble gum in her hair, on her

Contract Bridge Club Reaches Finals In Spring Series

At the March 5 session of the Kelowna Contract Bridge Club 15 tables of players participated in the semi-final event of the Spring Series.

Visitors welcomed to the club by president J. L. Real were Hugh Harris from Vancouver, and Mrs. Michael Reid, J. A. Simmons and Carl Schmok of Kelowna.

The final event in the Spring Series will take place on March 12. Visitors are always welcome but players requiring partners are requested to attend early.

Winners of the Wednesday evening session were: N/S—1. Mrs. C. W. Wilkinson and William Hepperle; 2. Mrs. P. A. MacRae and Dr. W. G. Evans; 3. L. O. Moyley and S. A. Shatford; 4. Mrs. H. R. Crosby and Andre LeBrun; 5. H. R. Crosby and R. V. Thomas.

E/W—1. Mrs. J. K. Archibald and Mrs. A. C. Lander; 2. Mrs. J. H. Fisher and Mrs. W. J. Mackenzie; 3. Mrs. Harold Lamoureux and Mrs. J. L. Real; 4. Mr. and Mrs. Morris Diamond; 5. A. L. Hampson and D. L. Purcell.

The next play session of the new academy section of the club is programmed for Tuesday at 7:20 p.m. at the Capri. Contract bridge players are welcome in singles, pairs or groups, with all inquiries to 762-2267.

Pre-Schoolers May Start New Group

Of interest to parents in the north area of Kelowna is a proposal to start a second co-operative pre-school kindergarten in Kelowna. A meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. G. S. Denroche on Wednesday at 8 p.m., at which time Mrs. L. A. Taylor, an experienced co-operative teacher, now living in Kelowna, will explain about co-operatives and answer any questions that people may have.

People who would definitely be interested in enrolling children in this new co-operative, yet are unable to attend this meeting, are asked to call Mrs. Denroche, as it is imperative that the group know just how many might be interested in utilizing this kindergarten.

The Kelowna Co-operative Pre-School Kindergarten with headquarters at St. Paul's United Church halls has had a busy year with a total of 60 children enrolled in the various classes. This school takes children who are three and four-year-olds, as well as five-year-olds.

The unique aspect of the co-operative type of kindergarten is the parent involvement. Each mother or father acts as an assistant teacher once or twice each month, though it varies with the size of the group.

Welfare regulations determine the number of children in each group, but the Kelowna Co-operative keeps its numbers at the minimum as it is felt this is the best situation for the child.

There are 15 in the three-year-old group which meets Monday and Tuesday; 20 in the four-year-old group which meets Wednesday, Thursday and Friday; and 25 in the five-year-old group which meets five days a week. In each group there is a qualified teacher and two parent assistants. This enables the children to have the maximum of teachers' attention, while the parents also have the opportunity to see how the children are progressing, especially their own.

With such active parent participation, the five-year-olds were able to experience an old-fashioned sleigh-ride recently. There are 11 mothers who will vouch that it is a thrill to be pulled on a big sleigh behind a team of horses—an opportunity few parents can offer their children at home.

No charge for the advice.—NO LONGER STUCK

Dear N.L.S.: I am glad you didn't charge for that advice because it's not worth anything. Two of my secretaries tried removing gum from their arms with plain table butter and it didn't work.

P.S. My mother used cleaning fluid and that did work.

Public Speaking At 4-H Meeting

Kelowna 4-H Home Arts Club members met recently in the club room at 1885 Ambrosi Rd., with eight members present.

After the general meeting, members of the club took part in public speaking, with Mrs. Ronald Alexander guest speaker, as judge. All did very well and gave interesting and informative talks.

Recently Wendy Smalldon, Glenda Kinney, Lee Ann Miller and Maureen Davis entered the public speaking competitions held in Armstrong.

A small lending library was set up with Wendy Smalldon as librarian. After each meeting a candy sale is to be held.

A bowling party will be held at Meridian Lane, March 15 at 2:00 p.m. The next meeting will be held in the club room, March 22 at 1:30 p.m.

Jack Brown, Kelowna's parks and recreation director, may appear to be giving a lesson in how to tell time but really he's admiring a new clock that will be used by Kelowna swimmers this coming summer. Kelowna Entries Sharp In Ogopogo Mixed Spiel

Kelowna rinks failed to do well in the A event of the Ogopogo Mixed Spiel during the weekend, improved their showing slightly in the B event and walked away with all four final spots in the C event.

Frank Beutle of Pentticon took top honors in the B event finishing ahead of the Keith Blair rink of Kelowna. Al Dean of Vancouver was third and Paul Mamchur of Kelowna fourth in the final A event standings.

George Cmolik of Kelowna took to honors in the B event with Lorne Ross of Pentticon finishing in the runner-up spot. Another Vancouver rink, one of three to place in the four-event bonspiel was third. George Grout skipped the Coast rink. Bob Hinds of Kelowna finished fourth in the B event.

Baseball Managers Make Use Of New Pinch-Hitting Rules

Managers Luman Harris of Atlanta Braves and Ralph Houk of New York Yankees already have used the designated pinch hitter rule to their advantage.

The rule permits a designated player to pinch hit for the pitcher throughout the game. It is being tried as a spring training experiment for possible use during regular season play by 1970.

Hank Aaron, batting in the pitcher's spot, started the Braves to an 11-3 romp over Los Angeles Dodgers Sunday by smacking a first-inning home run.

Roy White, playing the same role for the Yankees, socked a tying, three-run homer in a four-run ninth that nipped Baltimore Orioles 7-6.

While Aaron and White were delivering the long ball in the pinch, conventional homers helped six other clubs nail exhibition victories.

Joe Lis hit a three-run blast in the 10th inning, keying Philadelphia Phillies' 8-4 triumph over Pittsburgh Pirates. Larry Hise and Johnny Callison also homered for the Phillies and Jose Martinez connected for the Pirates.

Rookie Ken Myette pitched three scoreless innings and clouted a two-run homer, leading Cincinnati Reds past Chicago White Sox 4-0. Detroit Tigers scored five runs in the first inning—three on Bill Freehan's homer—and whipped Minnesota Twins 6-3.

Homers by Dalton Jones, Reggie Smith and Billy Coniglia-

Loud Voice Exhorts Expos In Spring Training Routine

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (CP) — The holler guy of the Montreal Expos, usually with a chaw of tobacco in his mouth, is Bob Olds—famously known as Oldie—the bullpen coach and one-time catcher over a 14-year stretch in the minors and major baseball leagues.

The booming voice of Olds can be heard all over the spring-training field and elsewhere, for that matter.

Olds exhorts, encourages and praises in endless chatter as he bats to the infield. All hands respond with a zip.

He is 40 years old, stands 6-1 and weighs 185. He is rugged but trim and keeps in shape during the off-season by refereeing basketball games in his home state of Iowa.

By no means letting his enthusiasm run away with him, Olds said he thinks the new Montreal National League crew has the potential to become a good baseball club.

"We really have some good prospects in our youngsters and we have a good mixture of veterans too," he said.

"Our young pitchers have been something of a surprise to

Buckaroo Hopes Dashed In Futile Junior Game

By ALJE KAMMINGA

Take an old saying, amend it slightly, and you'll have the story of the 1969 Kelowna Buckaroos in a nutshell.

When Pentticon Broncos defeated the Buckaroos 9-5 Saturday to bring an end to Kelowna's hopes of success in the B.C. Junior Hockey League, the best team on the ice claimed victory. But if the best team, from a potential outlook, really won, remains a question that will never be answered.

The Buckaroos were eliminated in the best-of-seven semifinal series in four straight games. Only in one game did they ever hold a lead and at no time did they ever look like serious rivals for Pentticon.

And yet, on paper, this was a team that might have beaten the Broncos and gone on to represent the province in the Memorial Cup playoffs.

The story of the final game is sadly consistent with the way the Buckaroos journeyed through the entire season.

They gave up the first goal when Ken Conner scored for the Broncos. His goal came seconds after a penalized Buckaroo returned to the ice.

Then Kelowna took over. The Bucks hammered in three goals, showing the form they might have been capable of all season but allowed themselves only on rare occasions.

Chuck Carigan, taking a pass from centre Larry Lenarduzzi at the side of the Pentticon net, slapped in the first Kelowna goal at 5:22 of the first period. At 14:20, Dave Yarocki took a similar pass from Dave Cousins to fire in the second Kelowna goal.

Less than a minute later, at 15:05, Philip gave the Bucks a two-goal lead.

With 22 seconds remaining in the first period and just three seconds after Kelowna's Pat McMahon returned to the ice after serving a minor penalty, Conner pulled the Broncos to within a single goal by converting a pass from Ed Hays.

The final 40 minutes was merely a continuation of the final few seconds of the first period. Kelowna gave up the next five goals and exchanged a pair with the Broncos when the clock travelled its weary way to the end of the game and Kelowna's junior hockey season.

Conner added a third goal for the Broncos, Pat Laughton scored two while singles went to Ed Hays, Dwayne Pentland, Robin Agur and Reg Cherenko. Ken Philip scored his second goal while Danny McCarthy added the final Kelowna marker.

Grant Keeping Stars Near Playoff Berth

By SCOTT BUTTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A trade made last June seems to be keeping Minnesota North Stars in contention for a playoff spot in the National Hockey League's Western Division.

The North Stars obtained winger Danny Grant and Claude Larose from Montreal Canadiens in that transaction, giving up their top choices in the 1969 and 1973 amateur drafts, some cash and two minor league players.

Grant, 23, a left winger from Fredericton, N.B., and Larose, 27, a right winger from Hearst, Ont., have been two of Minnesota's top forwards.

Sunday night Grant scored his 28th and 29th goals of the season to help Minnesota tie St. Louis Blues 2-2. Grant needs one goal in his 11 remaining games to tie the modern record for a rookie of 30 goals set by Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal in 1951-52.

In other games Sunday, Boston Bruins walloped Los Angeles Kings 7-2, Philadelphia Flyers downed Oakland Seals 5-3 and Montreal and New York Rangers played to a 2-2 tie.

Saturday, New York topped Pittsburgh Penguins 5-3, Detroit Red Wings outscored Boston 7-4, St. Louis defeated Oakland 5-2, Philadelphia and Toronto Maple Leafs finished in a 2-2 deadlock and Montreal and Los Angeles played to a 3-3 tie.

TIES THE GAME

A crowd of 14,487 at Minneapolis saw Grant give Minnesota a 1-0 lead in the first period, but the Blues went ahead 2-1 on goals by Barclay Plager and Ab MacDonald before Grant scored again.

The tie left the North Stars four points behind fourth-place Philadelphia in the race for the final playoff berth in the Western Division. But the North Stars have two games in hand.

Phil Esposito, the NHL's leading scorer, collected a goal and three assists for Boston Sunday to add to his record-setting performance this season.

The Boston centre now has 107 points on 41 goals and 66 assists and set records for most points and most assists in a season each time he adds to his totals.

The record for most points was 97, held by both Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks, and the record for most assists was Mikita's 62. Ken Hodge added two goals Nancy Greene was honored as British Columbia's top athlete last week at an awards dinner in Vancouver sponsored by the B.C. Sports Federation.

Swimmer Elaine Tanner was voted top junior athlete, high-jumper Wilf Wedmann, top university athlete and another high-jumper, Debbie Brill top high school athlete.

Two Kelowna athletes, track and field star Brock Aynsley and water-skiing champion George Athans Jr., were among those nominated for the awards.

The borrowing of $280,000, for general improvements at the Kelowna Golf and Country Club, will be the main resolution at a general meeting at the clubhouse Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Sandra Hartley, a 23-year-old University of British Columbia student, turned in an outstanding performance at the Canadian inter-collegiate gymnastics championships in Hamilton on the weekend.

A member of Canada's 1968 Olympic and 1967 Pan-American Games teams, Miss Hartley was crowned all-around female gymnast of the meet after winning three of four individual events and leading UBC to the team crown.

Montreal Oldtimers, led by Dickie Moore and Bill Mosienko, swept to a 5-2 victory over an armed services team in Baden-Solinger Sunday to end a triumphant tour of Canadian bases in West Germany.

The Oldtimers won all five of the games on their tour which began March 1.

Moore scored three goals and Mosienko two in the Sunday encounter. Scorers for the Canadian services team, playing under the name Four-Wing Raiders, were Dave Carlisle and Don Sheppard.

Dave Pearson won the Carolina 500 stock car race Sunday to complete a victory sweep of the South's major speedways.

Pearson, a 34-year-old member of the Ford factory racing team, led 310 of the 500 laps over the one-mile North Carolina Motor Speedway to take home $18,150 of the $82,500 purse. Bobby Allison, driving a Dodge, finished second and third place went to Cale Yarborough in another Ford.

John McInnis of Revelstoke won the North American ski jump-p.l.a.s.—championship in Revelstoke Sunday over a field of 25 which included members of the Canadian and United States national ski teams.

McInnis, 29, a member of the Canadian team since 1960, had leaps of 180 and 177 feet to pile up 187.9 points of a possible 240.

Four Skips For Quebec In Mixed Curling Meet

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Most curlers say that four skips do not make a winning rink, but Earl Carson doesn't listen. "We're all skips and we wouldn't be here if we weren't," Carson said Sunday, talking about the rink from Bagotville, Que., he will skip in the first round of the Canadian mixed curling championship today.

Smith Beaten By American In Indoor Track And Field

EDMONTON (CP) — Sprinter Tommie Smith, who hopes to begin a football career this year with Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, lost his second indoor race in two years at the Canadian senior indoor track and field championships Saturday.

Edwin Roberts, 27, a teacher from Fairfax County, Va., used a quick start in the 300-yard invitation race to set a Canadian open record at 31.5. The old mark of 32.2 was set in 1966 by Lee Soetner of the University of Manitoba.

Smith, 24, a native of Ackworth, Tex., and a student at San Jose State College, Calif., said Roberts got away from him.

"By the time I started to run my race, it was just too late to catch Roberts," Roberts, formerly of Trinidad and a bronze, silver and gold medalist at the 1966 British Empire Games in Jamaica, was jubilant about beating Smith, a gold medalist in the 1968 Olympic Games.

"It was the first time I have beaten Smith since he was a sophomore,"

Smith's announcement that he would try out for the Rams this fall came as no surprise. Earlier, he said the Edmonton meet "could be my last indoor meet of my career."

Edmonton runner Ray Haswell won two senior titles and set a Canadian record at the meet along with Barbara Dallimore of Victoria. Ann Covell of Richmond, B.C., and Heather McKay of Edmonton equalled Canadian records.

The five records are unofficial. The International Amateur Athletic Federation, governing body for track and field, does not recognize indoor records because of variations in track sizes and surfaces.

Haswell ran the men's 1,500-metre event in 3:47.7 to beat a 1967 mark by 2.2 seconds set by Dave Bailey of Toronto in a meet at Moscow.

RALLIES FOR WIN
The Edmonton athlete, a University of Alberta student, rallied for an easy win in the men's 800-metre race with a time of 1:51.8. Barry Cunningham of Vancouver was second in 1:53.2.

Miss Dallimore set an open 50-metre hurdle record for women in 7.4 seconds, four-tenths of a second better than the mark set in 1936 by Roxanne Atkins of Toronto.

Janene Jaton of Seattle was second in the 50-metre hurdles in 7.5 and Vi Tittle of Vancouver was third.

A member of the 1968 Canadian Olympic team, Miss Covell tied a mark of 57.2 for the women's 400-metres. This was set in New York in 1965 by Abigail Hoffman of Toronto.

A double-winner was Thelma Fynn of Vancouver. She took the women's 800-metres in 2:15.4 and the 1,500-metres in 4:44.4.

at Oshawa, Ont., and has won the Quebec mixed title in each of the last three years.

"I'm no better than most skips in the province," he said. "But myself and each member of my rink is a skip in our club at the air base. Each of us takes two beginners at the start of the season and that puts a lot of pressure on the skip to make the shot."

"The difference between winning and losing the provincial championship is about five per cent and we have that necessary edge through our club competition."

FOUR ARE FAVORED
Carson is one of four favorites in the 11-rink, round-robin tournament which ends Friday. The others are from Saskatchewan, Ontario and Newfoundland.

The Quebec rink was scheduled to meet British Columbia in the first round of the championship at 2 p.m. EST today while Prince Edward Island met Newfoundland, New Brunswick went against Northern Ontario, Saskatchewan took on Alberta, and Manitoba played Nova Scotia.

Ontario, drew the first-round bye before playing Manitoba in the second round at 7:30 p.m. Quebec played Prince Edward Island, British Columbia took on Newfoundland, New Brunswick met Saskatchewan, Northern Ontario played Alberta, and Nova Scotia took the night off.

The other rinks in the tournament are skipped by Barry Nalmark of Vancouver, Don Anderson of Edmonton, Jack Hume of Oak River, Man., Wayne Pelch of Kirkland Lake, representing Northern Ontario, Austin Steeves of Halifax, Clarence (Bob) Doucet of Bathurst, N.B., Alan McCurdy of Belvedere, P.E.I., Leonard Kalichak of Goose Bay, Nfld., Wes Brigham of Nipawin, Sask., and Terry Patton of Brantford, Ont.

First Victory For Ken Still

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Ken Still won his first major golf tournament Sunday after 16 years on the pro trail.

His victory came in the $115,000 Citrus Open with a final round 70 for a 72-hole total of 278, 10 under par. Miller Barber was one stroke behind.

The 34-year-old bachelor from Tacoma, Wash., said he felt he would win the $23,000 first prize after an eight-foot putt for a par-five on the first hole of the par-72 Rio Pinar Country Club course.

Top Canadian was Alvie Thompson of Toronto, who won $143 with a final-round 75 for a total of 293. Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver also won $143 with a 73 Sunday for a total of 294.

Spokane Jets Enter Finals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Spokane Jets kept up their home-ice domination of Trail Smoke Eaters Sunday to earn a berth in the Savage Cup finals for the Western International Hockey League playoff championship.

The Jets completed their four-game sweep of the best-of-seven semi-final series by dumping the Smokies 4-3 after beating them 3-1 Saturday night in Trail.

The Smokies have not won a game in Spokane in five seasons. The Jets' opponents in the final could be decided tonight in Kimberley where the Dynamiters, leading their semi-final 3-1, take on Nelson Maple Leafs.

The Dynamiters grabbed a stranglehold on their series Saturday night when they hammered the Leafs 6-3 in Nelson.

HOLD OFF RALLY
In Spokane Sunday, the Jets built up a 4-1 cushion, then held off a late Trail charge. Ed Legare and Brian Leswick sparked a Smokie rally late in the third period but the drive fell short.

Garry Ferro fired the Smokies first marker. Gail Holden scored two for the Jets while Tom Rendall and Tom Hodges added the others as Spokane pelted 54 shots at Reno Zanier in the Trail nets.

Canadian Hopes Failing For Hockey Championship

OTTAWA (CP) — Lingerin hopes that Canada's seven-year drought in international hockey competition might end this month were further dashed Sunday when Moscow Selects defeated Canadian Nationals 3-2.

The Canadian team will drop two players today before heading for Prague and an exhibition game Wednesday with the Czechoslovakia national team.

The same two teams meet in the opening game Saturday of the world hockey championships in Stockholm.

The last Canadian team to win the world title was Trail Smoke Eaters in 1961. Since then the Swedes have won once and the Russians six times.

The Selects, second-stringers to the Russian national team, fought back from one-goal deficits on two occasions Sunday and came up with the winning goal in the last minute of play.

ZIMIN SCORES TWICE
They were led by left-winger Yevgeni Zimin, who notched Moscow's first two goals and added a crucial assist on the winner, scored by Vladimir Shadrin.

Chuck Lefley and Ritchie Bayes scored for Canada.

The victory gave the Selects five wins and three losses against various Canadian national combinations on their two-week tour. The Russian national team won nine straight games against the Canadians on an earlier visit, many of them by lopsided scores.

During that period national coaches Jackie McLeod and Red Bownass said the Canadians would offer stiffer opposition when the Ottawa-based and Winnipeg-based squads were an earlier visit, many of them by lopsided scores.

Teamsters Beat Seattle

Kelowna Teamsters, on an exhibition swing through Seattle during the weekend, defeated the Federal Soccer Club 4-2.

Luke Stienstra scored two goals for Kelowna, singles coming from Ewen McInnes and Hans Schwaiger.

The Teamsters jumped off to an early lead, McInnes scoring after just 10 minutes of play. Five minutes later, hard-working George Kamoshinski went off the field with torn ligaments in his right knee.

To compensate for his absence Kelowna moved Bob McAndrew to right wing and Tom Martin to right back. But the Kelowna attack lost some of its sting and Seattle took over the offensive.

The hosts failed to score, however, leaving Kelowna ahead 1-0 at the half.

Stienstra scored early in the second half, a third goal coming from Schwaiger.

Seattle bounced back with two quick goals but Stienstra scored his second goal late in the game to end the threat.

Public Health Conditions Kept Up To Date In Valley

A total of 20 in-service education programs and special projects during 1968 kept South Okanagan Health Unit nurses and other personnel up-to-date on the rapidly-changing public health conditions in the Valley. This was reported to the 40th annual meeting of the South Okanagan Union Board of Health Wednesday in Penticton by medical director Dr. D. A. Clarke.

The special training seminars and courses, more than one a month, included health topics aster institute in March, to a seminar on drug dependency during November.

Throughout the year nine UBC students of public health nursing and one from Alberta received one month's field experience under the guidance of staff nurses in this unit.

As well, 10 student nurses from various hospital schools of nursing, and one from UBC, were in the Valley unit for one week's experience.

Other training activities conducted by the unit included one-day sessions for the practical nurse classes from the B.C. Vocational School in the city.

Several public health nurses are active in planning programs with the high school future nurses clubs, it was also reported.

In their regular community work the health nurses are involved with such bodies as the homemaker service committee, in liaison with the mental health centre, the vocational rehabilitation committee, and the volunteer bureau committee.

HOSPITAL LIAISON
They also work with the health and welfare committee, the reactivation committee, with the boards of directors of schools for retarded children and with school liaison committees.

The much-respected public health nurses also served on the women's auxiliary to the health unit, in hospital liaison, and in family planning programs.

Two other areas of special public health nursing involvement are in school group counselling and the conducting of pre-natal classes.

Each week since September, Penticton public health nurses have met during a lunch hour period to discuss their reading project, Magic Years.

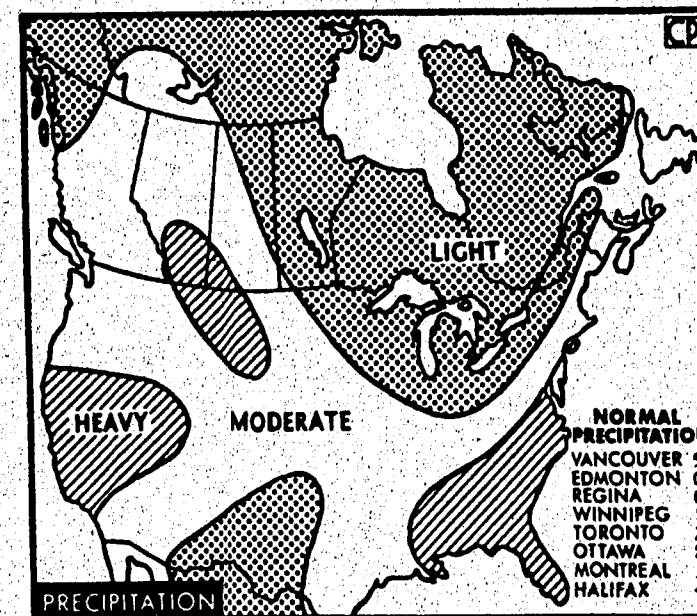

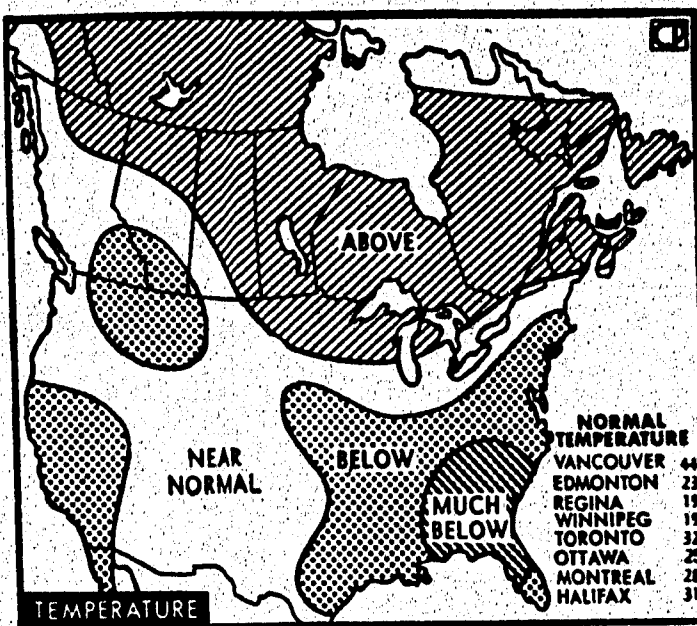

The book, written by a psychologist, is a study of children from birth to six years old.

The annual meeting was also held at the work being conducted by the health unit's special speech therapist, Miss Dorothy Deakin.

During 1968 a total of 202 new referrals for speech therapy were received by the unit, an increase of 50 from the average for the previous three years.

Of this total, it was reported, many more referrals than in the past required continuous therapy and parent counselling.

"The reason for this," states Miss Deakin in her report, "is that primary teachers and public health nurses have been given a set of guidelines to enable them to screen out more carefully those children who really have speech and language disorders warranting therapy."

WEATHER FORECAST

The United States weather bureau in its 30-day weather outlook released today predicts above-average temperatures for most of Canada. Temperatures on the west coast will be normal for the time of year. Precipitation will be light in central areas and near-normal in western areas. This outlook is not a forecast and changes may occur.

Indian Numbers Stay About Same

Although the Indian population served by the South Okanagan Health Unit isn't suffering from over-zealous visits from the stork, neither is it dying out.

A report by the unit reveals a natural increase of 2.2 per cent in 1968, a jump of 20 for a total of 894 for six tribes covered by the unit. Of these, largest number of hospital admissions were from the Penticton band at 126, with an average stay of 4.15 days. Second largest admission came from the Inkanep band of Osoyoos with 85 hospital entries at a patient stay rate of .56. Winfield, Westbank, Duck Lake and Tsinsti-keupum tribes registered a total of 29 hospital admissions for an average stay of 5.5 days. There were 36 hospital admissions from the Similkameen bands for an average stay of 1.37 days. Respiratory complications accounted for 44 admissions in the one to four-year-old age group, with 14 cases in the five to 19-year-old bracket and seven in the 20 to 39 year olds. Second serious illness in the one to four-year-old group was gastrointestinal with 12 admissions, with five cases in the five to 19 and 20 to 39 year-old brackets.

The report noted that with the resignation of Father Blaquiere, a small group of members on the reservation decided that the Indian affairs committee no longer fulfilled a useful purpose although it was felt this was contrary to popular opinion. It was also noted that there had been considerable antagonism among white and Indian teenagers, and it was hoped that a program of counselling and understanding would be pursued vigorously.

MPs Would Cut Vacation To Study Grain Situation

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons agriculture committee voted has to ask Parliament for permission to visit Western Canada next month to study the grain situation.

The MPs agreed to cut short their Easter vacation and leave April 9 in order to have enough time to visit all four western provinces.

The original motion by Alf Gleave (NDP-Saskatoon-Biggar) called for an April 14-20 trip, but ran into complaints that it was not enough time.

Jerry Pringle (L-Fraser Valley East) said Western Canadian agriculture problems were not confined to the prairies.

"British Columbia will be unhappy if the committee only goes into Saskatchewan and returns."

The whole of Canada has agricultural problems and any trip should be long enough to study them thoroughly, he said.

Mr. Pringle brought shouts of protest from western MPs when he quipped that April would be a good time for the visit as prairie farmers would be back from their winter vacations and not yet left for their summer vacations.

APPROVE PROPOSAL

Later the committee voted unanimously for a proposal by Mr. Pringle that the committee make plans for an eastern Canadian trip later in the year.

Bruce Beer (L-Peel-Dufferin-Simcoe), committee chairman, said the steering committee had rejected the idea of a western trip in April because it would overlap with a trip planned by the fisheries committee for April 19-27.

He said the government had decided that only one committee could be away from the House at one time. The proposal had been for the agriculture committee to make the trip April 14-23.

Jack Horner (PC-Crowfoot) said the Commons had not made any decision about how many committees could be away at one time. The Liberal government's majority was such that it didn't have to worry if two committees were away.

Les Benjamin (NDP-Regina-Lake Centre) said the invitation from the Saskatchewan wheat pool had been in the committee's hands since Jan. 14. That should give it priority over the fisheries committee, he suggested.

In the absence of a reply, the wheat pool had gone ahead and made tentative arrangements. Mr. Benjamin said more than 300 people had indicated they wanted to meet the committee at three Saskatchewan centres and 30 briefs had already been prepared.

Harold Dantforth (PC-Kent-Essex) suggested the committee sacrifice part of its Easter vacation and leave on April 9. He said they could spend two days in Alberta and two in British Columbia and still be in Saskatchewan for the period Mr. Gleave had included in his motion.

Home Nursing Service Takes On A New Beat

Home nursing service has taken on a new beat in the South Okanagan Health Unit with the advent of more personnel and greater coverage in all but the most rural areas.

The travelling maids of mercy made a total of 6,658 visits last year, offering such specialized services as injection therapy, health supervision, rehabilitation and exercise, general care and other services including dressing change, catheter care, enemas and colostomy. In addition, weekend and holiday service is provided by relief nurses on a permanent arrangement.

Of 192 patients receiving home nursing care in Kelowna school district 23, a total of 158 were in the 65 and over age group, while 31 consisted of 20 to 64 year-old bracket with a remaining three in the one to 19 year classification. Total home care patients in 1967 was 192.

Second largest home nursing area, Penticton school district 15, 101 patients were treated last year as compared with 107 in 1967. Of these, 79 were in the 65 and over age group, with 20 in the 20 to 64 year bracket and two in the one to 19 year classification. Keremeos school district 16 showed 58 visits last year as compared with 20 in 1967. There were 20 in the 65 and over bracket, 29 in the 20 to 64 group and nine in the one to 19 year group.

NEW IMPETUS

Also taking on new impetus is the health units geriatric programs at Scenic Valley, Kelowna and Penticton. A special volunteer recreation services committee was evolved at Kelowna comprising representation from hospital, public health, social welfare and parks and recreation staffs. The group visits private hospitals and boarding homes, spreading their recreational sunshine.

Similar duties are being dispensed at Penticton by the volunteer bureau, who are assisting in a program developed by the welfare committee of the Penticton Anglican Church. Public health nurse, Mrs. E. Godber, has been holding a geriatric clinic twice a month at the Scenic Valley retirement centre.

Seminars On Abuse Of Drugs Held In Kelowna, Penticton

During the third week of November, 1968, seminars on the abuse of drugs among youth were held in Kelowna and Penticton.

The seminars were sponsored by the family court in co-operation with the Narcotic Foundation of British Columbia.

Kent Pearson, member of the educational staff of the narcotic foundation also spoke to some of the local high school students. To emphasize his point and provoke discussion, he brought with him a film entitled Marijuana, which depicts many of the detrimental effects of this drug.

There has been a series of discussions on drug uses today which have included information on the place of narcotics, psychedelics, amphetamines, barbiturates and tranquilizing drugs in 20th century society.

In Oliver an optometrist was employed by the school board to carry out a vision testing program.

The schools and workshops for the nearly retarded are administered by the local chapters of the B.C. Association for the Mentally Retarded. Public health nurses provide service and special classes to the schools on the same basis as for elementary schools.

SHORT COURSE

In 1968 one nurse from the South Okanagan Health Unit attended the national conference of the Canadian Association for Mentally Retarded, sponsored by the local chapter. There was a short course for public health nurses conducted in conjunction with the conference.

In Penticton, re-organization of personnel took place in the Happyvale school and a new teaching staff commenced duties in September, 1968.

In Kelowna, a new director of the workshop was appointed. The new director hopes to extend services to the physically handicapped and emotionally disturbed as well as the retarded.

Ald. Winter Elected Chairman Of South Okanagan Health Unit

Ald. E. R. Winter of Kelowna was elected chairman of the South Okanagan Union Board of Health Wednesday in Penticton at the union's 40th annual meeting.

Ald. Winter will replace Ald. Hilbert Roth, also of Kelowna. Last year's executive consisted of Ald. Roth, chairman; vice-chairman Ald. G. S. Houghton of Summerland; secretary, Dr. D. A. Clarke of Kelowna and honorary members Mrs. T. M. Croil of Summerland and L. A. N. Potterton of Kelowna.

Elected vice-chairman was Ald. Frank Laird of Penticton and Dr. Clarke continues as secretary.

The municipal representatives are Ald. Roth, F. Ivor Jackson of Peachland, Ald. G. S. Houghton of Summerland, Ald. F. O. McDonald, Ald. J. Rogers of Oliver, Ald. A. F. Cameron of Osoyoos, A. C. Affleck of Keremeos and Ald. J. Norman of Princeton.

The school district representatives of last year's union board of health were trustee Frank Venables of Oliver, Mrs. H. B. McGregor of Penticton, A. C. Affleck of Keremeos, H. D. C. Allison of Princeton, Mrs. E. R. Pelly of Kelowna and J. H. Bennest of Summerland.

The South Okanagan Union Board of Health is made up of 14 health representatives from the six districts comprising the geographical health unit area.

There are eight representatives from municipalities and six trustees from the six school districts served. The board meets regularly four times a year to study public health matters and needs in the health unit.

Suicides In South Okanagan Show 50 Per Cent Increase

Suicides in the South Okanagan Health Unit area increased by 50 per cent last year, or a jump of five from the 1967 total of 10.

There were six suicides in school district 23 in 1968, five of whom were male. This compares with three in 1967, one of whom was female. A total of 51 suicides were recorded from a period between 1959 and 1968, 36 of whom were male and 15 female.

Second largest suicide area was school district 14, Oliver, with an even four, all male. This compares with the 1967 total of two, one from each sex. In the 1959 to 1968 period, a total of 14 suicides were registered, 13 being male. School district 15, Penticton, had three suicides last year, of whom two were male. The same set of figures also apply to 1967. Suicide total for the 1959 to 1968 period numbered 20, 14 of whom were male.

Figures for the nine-year period for Princeton and Keremeos, school districts 15 and 16, revealed respective totals of six and five, two of whom were female in both areas. Keremeos recorded one male suicide in 1968, the same as the year previous, while Princeton had no suicides in 1968 and only one male suicide in 1967.

Age factor would seem to have a direct bearing on suicide rates. Five of the reported suicides were in the 50 to 59 year bracket, and four were in the 70 and over group. Three suicides were between 40 and 49 years of age, with one in the 60 to 69 year and 30 to 39 year classification. One suicide was recorded for the 10 to 15 year old age group.

Most used method of suicide was by gunshot at five, with hanging and drowning second choice at four and three suicides respectively. There was one leap from a bridge and one poison by antifreeze.

TAX TIPS

Q. It appears from my T4 slip that my employer has not deducted sufficient Canada Pension Plan contributions. May I pay the additional amount required and claim the increased deduction?

A. No, please do not make additional payments on your return, claim only the contributions per T4 slips. If it appears that you have been under deducted, check with your employer first, there may be legitimate reasons for not deducting full contributions. If you are satisfied that the required contributions have not been withheld, attach a note to your return stating that your employer has failed to withhold sufficient Canada Pension Plan contributions.

Q. May I treat the cost of clearing and breaking land as an expense?

A. Yes, if you are in the business of farming. See page 7 of the Farmer's and Fisherman's Guide for further details.

Q. I've heard a lot about the registration of charitable organizations for tax deduction purposes. As a donor to some charities, what should I know about this?

A. Canadian charitable organizations issuing receipts for income tax purposes must be registered, and all receipts issued for donations must show the registration number of the organization. If you have received a receipt which doesn't show this number, you should get in touch with the organization and obtain a proper receipt.

Q. I have rented my farm out on a crop-share basis for the last five years. Would I still be able to average my income?

A. Yes. For averaging purposes, income from farm rental such as this is considered to be income from farming.

STROKE OF LUCK

FELMINGHAM, England (CP)—Norfolk farmer Alistair Kilburn struck oil when he held a show of his own work and sold £1,000 worth of canvases on the first day. He took up oil painting as a hobby six years ago, but hadn't tried to sell anything until this show. "It is certainly more rewarding than farming," he says.

Murder By Guns

Deaths Per 100,000

MANY SHOT DEAD

When it comes to murder by guns, figures released by the FBI show that the United States ranks first with 2.7 deaths per 100,000 population. The country was compared with Canada and at least 13 other nations, among them shown in this chart. As with different countries, figures also showed that states with some form of gun control laws generally have lower percentages of murders by firearms than states with no such laws.

A Peek Toward Century 21 Given At Rutland Elementary

RUTLAND (Special) — Nearly 300 people visited South Rutland Elementary School to see how and where their children were taught.

The school has almost more than its capacity of students—with seven of its 16 rooms having the 39 student limit. There is not much space for pupil projects and the library and activity rooms are constantly occupied.

However, two grade 7 classes provided their parents and visitors a peek into Century 21.

After the visitors had visited the various classrooms, two futuristic looking young ladies coiffured and pressed appropriately directed the visitors to the Century 21 room.

Students constructed robots with flashing lights, Martian mod-squad cars, a mechanical maid and a teaching machine were part of the display. Illustrations of man-made machines that the students would like to see invented completely covered one wall.

The students adequately covered almost every job young people find displeasure working on. There was a mechanical paperboy, a buggy walker, an answering machine, a robot mower and even a dirt dispenser.

Several students illustrated future fashion looks by dressing Barbie dolls in some of the styles. The students anticipate that homes of the future will be glass enclosed domes or apartments suitable for country or the city.

The highlight of the show was the trip across the stage. The students arranged passage through a time-cycle—complete with electronic music.

As parents and visitors passed through the time-cycle a "horror maze" exposed them to a space monster, human transplant stations, weird plants and a small fine for leaving earth without permits.

Sudden Flurry In Ottawa Office Resulted From Senator's Showing

OTTAWA (CP) — In a downtown office building here recently, there was a sudden flurry to remove a name from the directory in the lobby.

The reason: Under British-American Oil Co. Ltd. there appeared: "Government representative—Hon. J. J. Connolly."

Senator John J. Connolly, Ontario Liberal, is former government leader in the Senate.

Seldom is such public attention drawn to the lobbyist—namely, a person who can supply the views of private interests to the government.

There is nothing sinister about lobbying and hardly anyone objects to it. In fact, the government often welcomes the presence in Ottawa of someone who can provide it quickly with reaction to governmental actions or intended actions.

ORGANIZATIONS LOBBY

The Canadian Labor Congress and the Canadian Federation of Agriculture lobby just as much as the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, various industries and private companies.

But even legitimate and open lobbyists—a former minister in the Pearson government is an avowed lobbyist for an American company—tend to think that the public thinks there is something unsavory about their work.

That's why they commonly use such euphemisms as "information service" for their trade. And it is a flourishing trade because there are hundreds of lobbyists in the capital.

Many MPs say the Senate is the biggest lobby in Ottawa because many senators not only hold directorships in financial and other institutions but deliberate on legislation affecting these institutions.

The legitimate lobbyist may take a cabinet minister or other MP to lunch but he scorns the ham-handedness of salesmen who, for instance, press gifts on officials of the defence production department in the hope of obtaining a military contract.

WANT IN OPEN

Two British Columbia MPs are attempting to put lobbying right out in the open. One is Consumer Affairs Minister Ron Basford, the other Barry Mather, NDP member for Surrey.

Mr. Mather says he has no wish to interfere with lobbying. But he has introduced a bill in the Commons which would require lobbyists to identify themselves by registering with the Commons clerk.

He says the public should know what private interests are trying to influence legislation.

Mr. Basford is understood to be drafting a bill to require lobbyists to register with his department. As a minister, Mr. Basford has the better chance of getting quick action.

ASKS DECLARATION

Mr. Mather has also presented a resolution which asks the government to declare illegal contributions by corporations to political party campaign funds and individual candidates.

He says that unions now have to vote whether to make such contributions but that corporations don't consult shareholders about theirs.

Mr. Mather says he hopes to get the question of lobbying before a Commons committee.

He has campaigned successfully to get his anti-cigarette and pro-breath-test bills before Commons committees.

He is quite a lobbyist himself.

The bidding:
West North East South
1NT Pass 2♦ 3♦
Pass Pass Dble

Opening lead—king of clubs. This deal produced a remarkable result in a team match played by England and Northern Ireland.

The bidding was peculiar at both tables. At the first table, with an English pair East-West, the bidding went as shown.

The notrump bid by West (indicating 12 to 14 points and balanced distribution) was well off the beaten track, but it produced a very good result. After East responded two hearts, South struck his neck out with three diamonds, which East doubled.

West led the king of clubs and shifted to the king of hearts. When this held, he continued with a heart. East cashed the A-J and made the best defensive play of still another heart.

Declarer decided to ruff in dummy, discarding a spade from his hand. West, in the meantime, disposed of both his spades. West later got a spade ruff, and the upshot was that South made only five tricks, going down four—700 points.

At the second table, with Northern Ireland now East-West, the bidding went: West 1NT, North Dble, East 2 Hearts, South Dble, West 3 Clubs, North Dble, East 3 Diamonds, South Dble.

The temptation to bid a notrump with the West hand proved irresistible here also. North doubled—why, is a mystery—and East bid two hearts.

Unaware of his partner's paper-thin double, the English South whacked two hearts. West now unveiled his secret weapon, bidding three clubs, but North seized the nearest megaphone and doubled, East, looking desperately for a better spot, ran to three diamonds, which South doubled.

So again Northern Ireland played the hand in three diamonds doubled—but this time with the East-West cards. The outcome was the same. East made five tricks and went down another 700 points.

All told, the diamond experiment cost the Irish team 1,400 points.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Stars indicate a more or less routine day; also the possibility of having to revise some of your previous plans. In dealing with others, listen to suggestions, even if they seem at odds with your own. After careful consideration, you could find that you've picked up some good ideas.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope promises highly satisfactory results in monetary matters during the next year, but you will have to be conservative in your program. You can make fine gains, however, if you manage smartly—especially between now and the end of September. Next good periods for increasing assets: December, January and February.

Avoid speculation of any kind throughout the year, however, but especially during the first two weeks of August, in November and December. Best periods for occupational advancement and recognition for past efforts: This month, July, September, November and January, 1970.

Some interesting social activities are promised during the coming year; also opportunities to make influential contacts—especially between now and September 15th and between mid-November and January 1st. The aforementioned two cycles, incidentally, will also be most propitious for romance, as will be late October and January. For the travel-minded, most auspicious cycles will occur between May and September (an excellent period for Pleiadians); also, December and January.

A child born on this day could succeed admirably in the business and financial fields, professionally, as an entertainer.
